GENERAL election voting throughout the land on Monday swept the Liberal party into power with an overwhelming majority of 169 seats. The Liberals were accorded the biggest house majority any party ever had, creating an all-time record in Canada. The anti-administration tidal wave cut the number of Conservative seats to 41.

All party leaders won their contests, Liberal Leader King in Prince Albert, Premier Bennett in Calgary West, J. S. Woodsworth in Winnipeg North Centre, and Hon H. H. Stevens in Kootenay East. Stevens' Reconstruction party made a dismal showing, the leader only being elected. Woodsworth's C.C.F. following hardly made an impression, winning eight seats.

In Alberta the crusading Social Credit party won 15 out of 17 seats. Two Social Credit members were elected in Saskatchewan.

E. G. Hansell, Vulcan, Social Credit candidate, won a decisive victory over three opponents in the Macleod constituency. He had a majority of 3,500 votes over his nearest contestant, G. G. Coote, present member and one of the well known "Ginger Group" now completely wiped out by the trend of political opinion in Alberta. J. W. Matthews, Conservative, and F. O. McKenna, Liberal, followed in race far behind the winner.

VULCAN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE ENTERTAIN GRANDMOTHERS

On Friday, October 11th the grandmothers of Vulcan were entertained by the members of the Vulcan Women's Institute. Forty-two visitors were present at the entertainment, nineteen of whom were grandmothers. Mrs. C. Lambert on behalf of the organization, extended greetings to the grandmothers. A delightful program followed: reading, Mrs. D. Jantzie; duet, Mrs. O. Craig and Miss Buelah Walker; dance arrangement, Miss Elwood's dancing class; recitation, Gordon Campbell; duet, Masters Ralph Clark and Ronnie Marshall. All joined in with the singing of the selection "Grandfather's Clock."

Mrs. C. Layman was the grandmother present who had lived in the province of Alberta the longest—36 years. Four other grandmothers had resided here 30 years and several 25 years and over. A delicious luncheon was served, during which Mrs. C. Brodick proposed a toast to the guests of the afternoon. This was responded to by Mrs. Durston. A very pleasant occasion was brought to a close with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Kuykendall. A quilt will be raffled at the November meeting.

MOUNKES-McKINNON

A pretty wedding was solemnized at Knox United Church, Calgary, on Wednesday, October 9th at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, when Dorothy, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McKinnon of Vulcan, became the bride of Mr. Calvin Mounkes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mounkes of Okotoks. The bride entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March, played by Mr. Higgins, and was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length dress of midnight blue velvet with hat to match and carried a bouquet of butterfly roses. Her only attendant was Mrs. Peggy Fraser, who wore a floor length dress of black velvet trimmed with silver and a corsage of red roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Ivan Pointer of Carstairs. During the signing of the register, Miss Eileen Mitchell sang "I Love You Truly."

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Buffalo Cafe. About forty guests attended. Following the reception the happy couple left for Spokane, Washington, and other western coast points. The bride's travelling costume was a navy blue swaggar suit with navy blue hat and accessories to match.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Mounkes will reside in Calgary.

Social Credit Member-Elect

Rev. Ernst G. Hansell of Vulcan, who won the election race in the Macleod constituency. Mr. Hansell is one of the fifteen Social Credit members that will represent Alberta in the House of Commons. He gained a decisive victory over G. G. Coote and two other opponents.

BERRYWATER U. F. W. A. MONTHLY MEETING

A good attendance of members of the Berrywater U.F.W.A. were present at the home of Mrs. C. L. Oldfield on Thursday, October 10th, for the regular monthly meeting of the group. The vice-president presided. The meeting opened with the reading of an interesting extract from President Gardiner's convention address. An invitation was received from Mrs. R. McBride, constituency director, to attend the conference at High River on October 12th. It was unanimously decided to accept Mrs. P. G. McPherson's cordial invitation to meet at her home on Wednesday, October 30th. The usual business session was followed by a lengthy discussion on the program for the fall and winter. Committees were selected for the annual fowl supper and dance on October 25th, also for a series of card parties. At the close of the business session, the hostess served a dainty lunch.

Conservative Leader Wins Seat

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett Who was returned to the House of Commons by electors in Calgary West on Monday. His Conservative administration was routed by an overwhelming victory for the Liberal party.

MACKENZIE KING TAKES OVER

The decisive victory of Hon. MacKenzie King and his Liberal party, removes the apprehension that this would be an indeterminate election, resulting in fusions and confusions. Such a definite rejection of Prime Minister Bennett's policies has been a surprise to many of the electorate, who felt that his chances for return had been increased greatly through the action and developments of recent months. A greater support had been anticipated amongst prairie farmers and eastern agricultural interests. The prophecy that a reaction against Liberalism had set in in eastern provinces proved quite unfounded, and Mr. King has been swept into power on one of the clearest mandates ever given by the Canadian people. The curious thing is that he has been elected on very much the same policies as brought his defeat in 1930. He made surprisingly few promises or commitments during the campaign, but the electorate does expect action along certain specific lines of easier trade, monetary reform and so on. Mr. King's task will not be easy, under most favorable conditions, but he will not be blocked in any of his purposes by a powerful opposition.

Although the country had grown impatient at the tedious march to recovery during the past few years, there is no one but will pay tribute to Mr. Bennett's devoted efforts along lines which he considered to be in the best interests of Canada. When he took office in 1930, he assumed tremendous responsibilities and his accomplishments may be more fully realized in later years than they are under the world stress of the present. He has held Canada financially steady, possibly paving the way to a more substantial prosperity than would otherwise have been.

The two new parties which developed in this election were a surprise in reverse. Although they totalled a fair share of the general vote, Mr. Stevens himself was the only Reconstructionist actually elected, and Mr. Woods-worth's C.C.F. party made surprisingly small inroads in the two party alignment.

Alberta has again distinguished itself by being eccentric. This province is apparently determined to continue out of step with all other provinces and with the Dominion. But the odd feature in the triumph of Social Credit, is that it has annihilated a group of men who have striven for recognition of national forms of Social Credit, long before the scheme was espoused in the Provincial field. What has been gained by defeating that very able group of Alberta Progressives is at present difficult to see. Every election seems to provide a lesson in man's ingratitude to man.

ELECTIONS ACT

The new Dominion Elections Act as operating in the recent election stands in need of some amendments and alterations. In many respects it is a fine piece of work, designed to furnish a permanent list, and to remove possibility of repeated voting, and similar violations of the law which have previously played a part in elections.

But it has flaws, which were demonstrated in its first operation on October 14. Numbers of electors, qualified to vote and exercising their franchise over long periods of years, were left off the list. And one of the provisions forbids any swearing-in on the day of election, so these life-time voters were in effect disfranchised.

Under the new Act the entire burden of franchise is placed on the individual. The voters' list was made out last October, was revised last May, and was then declared the final list, from which there was no appeal. It was up to the individual to see for himself that his name was on the list, although it would be natural that a man who had voted consistently for twenty years or for ten years should not consider this necessary.

But the lists for every constituency of Canada were printed in Ottawa, and it said that through clerical errors in Ottawa, names were omitted from the lists as sent in by enumerators. This central handling of all printing is an innovation and does not appear to be an improvement on the old system of printing the lists within each constituency. A list set up in a district printing office could be checked locally, with much more care than was given apparently at Ottawa. The expense of the work would certainly have been no greater, and the benefit of the business would have been scattered throughout Canada, instead of being centralized in the capital.

Voters henceforth will have to keep very close tab on the lists to safeguard their privileges of franchise, and unless the lists can be guaranteed as absolutely flawless when finally prepared, there should be some recourse in the way of a swearing in on election day.

There should also be special provision made for teachers, students and those whose occupations take them a long distance from the polls in which they are eligible. If such people are entitled to a dominion vote, this privilege should not be made impossible except through great expenditure of time and money. They should be permitted some form of transfer ballot. After all most people only want to vote once at every election.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

One of the interesting addresses given at the U.F.W.A. conference was by a young teacher from Vulcan district. She spoke of the desirability of teaching social science in the schools. This was described as "the art of living pleasantly with other people."

The speaker referred to the many people making up society, who may be successes in certain respects, but who are, after all, lonely people, unable to make friends, unable to establish amiable congenial relationships with other human beings. They have not learned how to treat others as they themselves would like to be treated. They have not learned the social duties and responsibilities, the give and take of life, the easy approach. They have never learned that society demands a certain unselfishness in daily living, a readiness to perform little community tasks without expectation of reward or acclaim.

Yet these qualities are implied in good citizenship. They are a necessary part of well rounded character and helpful living. They do not necessarily make for financial success, but they do constitute the substance of a man. The ability to establish and maintain happy relationships with others is the foundation of amiable, tolerant living, either in homes, communities or in the international aspect.

For this reason, it was suggested that greater emphasis be placed in schools upon the social sciences and their value. Games serve admirably in training the individual to serve the common good. Geography and history may be taught in such a way that peculiarities and differences amongst nations are not so important as the great common brotherhood of man. Public speaking is excellent training for adult responsibilities. The study of courtesy, unselfish consideration for the opinions and ideals of others, interest in the interests of others, the thousand little graces which make intercourse smooth and gracious could well come under the head of civic and social training.

Attention was also called to the folk schools of Denmark, which have brought to the students an appreciation of arts and crafts and "full living." These schools, which place no emphasis on certificates, do, however, broaden the viewpoint, increase possibilities of congenial companionship, encourage young people in the art of living, and provide wise direction for the use of leisure hours.

PERENNIAL WHEAT

Dr. Cora Hind, veteran agricultural authority of the West, who is fulfilling a commission to visit all the wheat growing areas of the world, and observe what she is abundantly qualified to observe has been spending some time in Russia.

She has written to the Winnipeg Free Press regarding one interesting experiment in perennial wheat, which is being made at an agricultural station at Saratov. The area in which the experiment has been carried on for the past five years is similar in many respects to Alberta. It is one of a very light rainfall subject to intense summer heat and intense winter cold, and without much snow cover. And it can produce high grade winter wheat.

What the research workers are hoping to perfect is a winter and spring wheat which is drought resisting and will produce a reasonable yield year after year without re-seeding.

In Miss Hind's opinion, this experiment if developing successfully, should be watched with interest by Western Canadian agriculturists. She thinks that this new plant might be profitably used to produce feed, add humus to the soil and prevent drifting. It would help in restoring a coverings to some of the range land which never should have been deprived of nature's covering. Something of this nature is most urgently required in large areas of the Western prairies.

The basis of the experiment is a cross between couch grass and wheat. The good qualities of couch are its resistance to cold, heat and drought, and its immunity to disease. It had also undesirable features, but the effort was toward an elimination of bad qualities. The grain from the seventh generation has now been harvested and is said to have very good milling qualities. The seed was sown lightly, with no soil cultivation, and the root spread and stools from an individual seed are astonishing. The fourth, fifth and sixth generations show fairly good seed with forty or fifty heads to a plant.

MAKING WARFARE SENSIBLE

"A new world war will kill off surplus labor. This obviously is the easiest way of solving a difficult problem; it is so much easier to start a war than to apply common sense to world ills.

"Well, if we are going to have another war, we might as well have some rules for it. We therefore offer for the public approval this model set.

"1. That all members of Parliament voting for war be given the choice of enlisting in the shock-troops or being shot on the steps of the Legislative Buildings.

"2. That each battleship, cruiser, destroyer, and submarine, shall carry as excess baggage one or more stockholders in battleship-building concerns.

"3. That all manufacturers of war supplies be hanged when their profits reach the million-dollar mark.

"4. That all holy men who announce to their congregation that 'God is fighting' with us' be despatched to interview God personally on the subject and find out.

"5. That college professors be stopped from delving into history to prove that the enemy always was a low-down scoundrel anyway.

"6. That the secret service be restrained from the discovery of 'enemy plots' every time somebody turns on a light in the parlor.

"7. That the cause of the war shall be clearly stated to the nation as the reduction of unemployment, and not disguised as a holy war to save civilization.—From Maclean's in Provost News.

ON MAKING MISTAKES

We all make mistakes.

The merchant, on checking his cash register at the close of the day's business, rarely finds that the total of the cash in the drawer tallies with that on the recording tape. Someone in his employ—sometimes the merchant himself—has given the customer the wrong change. He can recall a dozen instances in each day's business when customers have complained about getting the wrong goods, or being over-charged, or being compelled to await tardy deliveries.

Housewives make mistakes. They forget the salt for the potatoes, the soda for the biscuits, the extract for the lemon pie.

Everybody makes mistakes. Doctors, lawyers, plumbers, tailors, teachers, sailors, soldiers, dentists, grocers, laborers. There is no such thing as a perfect human being.

But almost everyone can get away with little slips without the general public finding out about them. The merchants put down their mistakes to profit and loss, and not one is the wiser. The housewife dumps the spoiled biscuits in a garbage can, and no one knows about her mistake, but the garbage collector. Doctors bury their mistakes under six feet of earth and lawyers hide theirs under 600 or 6000 words of legal terminology.

But the poor newspaperman just can't get away with it. His mistakes stand out like a sore thumb on the middle of the front page or in the opening sentence of his cherished editorial. And all the other folks who make mistakes point the accusing fingers at the poor newspaperman with an "Ah, hah—! We caught you!" attitude that makes it all the more unbearable.

We deserve your sympathy, not your scorn.—Pictou Gazette.

Vulcan Rugby Squad Defeated By High River Players 21 to 5

Vulcan Players Enter New Season Decker Out with Complete Equipment Including New Uniforms of Blue and White

Resplendent in new uniforms of pleasing color combination of blue and white, the Vulcan High School rugby football team trotted out onto the local field to meet defeat at the hands of the High River squad to the tune of 21-5 on Friday afternoon, October 11th. This was the local's debut for the 1935 season and they showed great improvement over last year's showing, under the coaching of Doug. Allred. A fair crowd of spectators turned out for the game and were pleased with the advancement made in the sport.

High River scored early in the first quarter on the kick-off when a pass was made from Marshall to Ellis to Harper for a touchdown. In the second quarter High River again scored with a touchdown, Marshall completing the play. The Vulcan team made their only score of the game during this frame when Craig came through for a touchdown on a forward pass from Ulrich. High River raised their score to 21 in the final quarter. Capers registering with a touchdown and Marshall converted. No score was registered in the third frame.

The only penalty of the game was given a visiting player, Jack Orton, 3 minutes for a high tackle. Four casualties were reported during the game, two for each team. Howard Spaeth, dislocated shoulder; C. Naylor, cracked ribs; Harry Brocklebank, knocked out; Jim Malmberg, minor injuries.

High River—Ends, Kennedy and Malmberg; middles, Hart and Bonyea; insides, Brocklebank and Balchey; snap, McKeague; backfield, quarterback, Marshall, Orton, Capers Ellis and Harper. Alternatives, McNally, Sexsmith, Green and T. McNally.

Vulcan—Ends, E. Jones and Harry Beingsner; middles, C. Naylor and H. Spaeth; insides, Wismer and R. Lundgren; snap, D. Jamison; backfield, quarterback, Ulrich, Craig, Weale and L. Jones; alternatives, Whitting, Roe, Shaw and Campbell. If the weather permits, the Vulcan boys hope to play teams from Okotoks, Turner Valley and Lethbridge. A return game will be played with High River. The members of the team anticipate good galleries for these games and ask that the citizens of the town support their endeavors. About $150.00 was spent for equipment this year and need both the moral and financial support of the community. Watch for the billing of the next game—Come out and cheer for the locals.

LATE EARL HAIG AND HIS MEMOIRS

Much interest attends the publication of a biography of Field Marshall Haig, which includes quotations from his diary. One of the startling comments is on Lloyd George whom he speaks of as astute and energetic but shifty and unreliable.

Following the battle of the Somme Lloyd George wrote a letter to Haig, "congratulations on the skill of the plans and the bravery of the troops," which the biographer contrasts with Lloyd George's later writing of the "horrible, futile carnage of the Somme."

Haig's diary records that only four days after Lloyd George visited British headquarters, he visited Field Marshall Foch and asked his opinion of British generals.

Haig comments, "I could not have believed a British minister could have been so ungentlemanly as to go to a foreigner and put such questions regarding our own subordinates."

Concerning General Sir John French, Haig wrote in his diary when the war was a week old, "I know French is quite unfit for this command. However, I am determined to be thoroughly loyal, trying all the time to see his good qualities." He registered much the same opinion of Sir Archibald Murray, French's chief of staff.

Haig deemed General Joffre, "really past work if indeed he ever knew anything of tactics as apart from strategy. Still," he added, "Joffre has his merits. I admire the old man's pluck under difficulties."—Canadian Press.

Friends of Mr. Guy Walker will be sorry to learn that he is a patient in the Vulcan municipal hospital. He is resting nicely.

ALBERTAFOOTHILLS UNIT
HEALTH MAGAZINEContributors to Monthly Periodical
Are Pupils of Schools in the Unit

It is perhaps not generally known that the Foothills Health Unit has a little monthly magazine of its own. The editor is Miss McArthur, Public Health Nurse of the Unit, and the contributors are pupils from all the schools in the unit. Even the cover design is the work of pupils, and the illustrations, cartoons, paintings, etc. are stamped faithfully from the originals by means of a "ditto" machine.

The stories, poems, and even the pictures have some health theme as their motive, and the little contributors have a real gift for tucking away a moral, in every bright little story or verse.

Every school in the Unit or in the case of graded schools, each grade receives a copy of "The Sunbeam" each month, and it must be quite thrilling for the wee folk here and there over the district to find that their drawings or writings, with name attached, have been chosen to make interesting the pages of the magazine. Schools all over the Unit are represented amongst the contributors, showing the interest of the teachers and the pupils in the rules for good health. The work of selections, assembling and arranging, which is done at the Health Unit office, must be quite a task. Here is a sample of verse that has a thought with a "twinkle" in it:

"I do not sleep twelve hours at night,
And so you see I am not bright,
I try my best with all my might,
But I am stupid when its light."
Here's another with a moral—
"Bobbie's head has such an ache,
For he never went to bed by eight.
Mary's head was clear and bright,
She slept twelve hours every night"

The following is very true:

"Holidays are very fine you know,
That's why our health improves so.
When holidays are over, and school starts again,
There's one thing they ask us,
How much have you gained?"

There are stories and poems about flies and baths and spinach and carrots; mystery stories and animal stories; stories about sunshine and fresh air. Altogether this is a magazine in which the editor and the children can take pride.

Mrs. Otto Krautzer of Spokane, Washington, has been a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kennedy for the past week.

LORD TWEEDSMUIR
ARRIVES OCT 24New Governor Best Known as John
Buchan, Historian

John Buchan, now Lord Tweedsmuir, comes from an old border line of staunch Protestants. He is himself a son of the manse. His father, the Rev. John Buchan of Peebleshire, did not live to see his son's brilliant career in full, but Lord Tweedsmuir's mother still lives and resides in her beloved Peebles. This pretty little town is very proud indeed of the Buchan family.

Lord Tweedsmuir's brother Walter is the Town Clerk of Peebles, and his sister Anna known as "O. Douglas," writes most of her charming stories in the home town. John, of course, is the pride of the family. This quiet, rather grave-looking Scotsman of middle height, has not wasted a day of his sixty years and his Canadian appointment is a fitting reward for services which have been rich and unique.

Few authors enter politics without sustaining loss of reputation, but since Lord Tweedsmuir became an M.P. in 1927, his prestige has increased. He represented most fittingly the combined Scottish Universities, for he, above all, is a scholar and a brilliant man of letters. He also held the title of Colonel of the British army.

He is an author of world fame, and his output maintained at a uniformly high level, strikingly shows the range of his intellect and knowledge. Among his brilliant biographies, he includes the lives of Lord Minto, Cromwell, General Gordon, Sir Walter Raleigh and Montrose, and his novels are considered by many to be superior to those of Scott and Stevenson.

Lord Tweedsmuir never wastes an hour if he can avoid it. He once told me that he always preferred to travel alone, and much of his literary work has been accomplished on the "Flying Scotsman" which runs daily between London and Edinburgh.

Like all Scotsmen, he is fundamentally attracted to Canada, and his administration in his new capacity will be probably an outstanding success. The fact that the Home Government has nominated him is proof that Britain has at last awakened to the importance of Canada as a Commonwealth nation. With its own embassies in Washington, Paris and Tokyo and its vigorous championship of rights and status at Geneva and Imperial Conferences, Canada has made Britain Dominion-conscious. It is obvious that the Government have appointed Lord Tweedsmuir because

Producers, Adjust 1930 Payment

The Canadian Wheat Board has taken over all wheat and contracts from the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, and will distribute between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 to certain Alberta farmers.

The transaction makes possible adjustment of payments to members of the 1930 pools who received an initial payment of less than 60 cents a bushel for their wheat, basis No. 1 northern, Fort William, and to members of the coarse grain pools who received less than initial prices.

It was pointed out in Calgary that many farmers in 1930 received only 55 or 50 cents a bushel for their wheat and that the adjustments of payments would result in the difference of five or ten cents per bushel being paid to them now.

Mr. Brouillette said "If the 1930 pool carryover had been thrown on the market it would have been imposed nearly 100 per cent. of the holdings used in the stabilization operations. The increased price received by wheat producers, as a result of these operations, brought total benefits to growers estimated between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000.

they know they can depend upon him to be the perfect link between the home country and the Dominions.

With his marvellous brain, dignity and tact, and his capacity for hard work, Lord Tweedsmuir is the ideal selection for Governor-General. Canada has many agricultural problems. Lord Tweedsmuir was reared as a boy in rural surroundings and his family for centuries have been connected with the soil.
